

Companies in the veterinary and animal feed sectors require qualified support for the development and approval of their products. KLIFOVET AG, part of the Argenta Group, is an internationally recognised provider of expert services in the veterinary medicine and animal feed sector based in Munich. We support our customers from the idea, through development, to approval and beyond. Service for our customers determines our actions. Founded in 1997, we are considered as a global leader in animal health product development; Argenta and Klifovet have been awarded multiple times as the best service provider or the best contract research organisation in the animal health space internationally.

Like the animal health industry, Argenta Global including Klifovet is growing continuously.

To support our team we are currently seeking an:

Experienced Manager Regulatory Affairs (m/f/d) – Biological Products

Your role and responsibilities:

- You are responsible for planning and implementation of regulatory projects aimed to obtain marketing approval for biological products
- You evaluate documents relevant for approval
- You write dossiers and expert reports
- You develop and implement the best strategy to obtain marketing authorisation for different biological products including Immunologicals and Novel Therapy Products
- You have regular contact with experienced experts and authorities
- You will be responsible for the submission of marketing authorisation dossiers to national, European and international authorities
- You are part of a dedicated, highly motivated team respecting each other

Your profile:

- University degree in veterinary medicine, pharmacy or a comparable natural sciences
- Professional experience in the field of the development of biological products or vaccines
- Project management skills
- Independent, structured and team-oriented way of working
- Excellent written and spoken English language skills, other language skills appreciated
- Excellent skills in scientific writing
- Enjoying contributing to the success of the highly motivated team
- Willingness to travel for business (approx. 10% of working time)

We offer you a detailed introduction to your field of work, a challenging field of activity contributing to the availability of animal health products, to work in an international team with modern equipment, a family-friendly environment, options for continuous education and a very positive and collegial team atmosphere in Munich.

Please send your complete application including salary expectations and a possible starting date to KLIFOVET AG, Barbara Riedl, Geyerspergerstr. 27, 80689 Munich, Germany, jobs@klifovet.com.